HeartWork: A Video/DVD Celebrating the Lives of Direct-Care Workers

PHI's theatre of witness performance, HeartWork, is now available on videotape and DVD. It chronicles the development and presentation of this original theatre piece performed by women who work as home health aides and certified nurse aides. Through story-telling, music, song, and dance, the six cast members tell the story of their lives, providing an honest, moving, and often humorous account of what it means to be a caregiver. The video/DVD is an excellent educational tool, which can be used in in-service trainings with direct-care workers and/or supervisors, at events celebrating direct-care workers, or to create greater public understanding of the value of caregivers to our society.

PHI produced HeartWork in collaboration with HomeCare Associates of Philadelphia, a worker-owned home agency. Most members of the cast are employed at HomeCare Associates. PHI is a national nonprofit that promotes quality care through quality jobs (www.phinational.org).
